

Elisa follows new legislations and standards development at European and National levels with over 13 years of regulatory and quality assurance experience. After a degree in environmental sciences and after having been recognized as professional Biologist in the Italian National Registry of Biologist, her career began in the toxicological and environmental sector, with increasing competency. Elisa leads an EU team responsible for the procedures and testing protocols with safety requirements and providing companies updated information to help ensure compliance with the evolving legislations of consumer products. She also supports clients with technical issues to help expand their business. She conducts technical seminars to help manufacturers to understand international regulations and standards. She is experienced in children's products, chemical requirements related to textiles and apparel (REACH, CLP, DETOX Greenpeace Campaign), jewellery and general merchandise. She is an active member of technical groups for toys including CEN/TC52 Safety of toys and interpretations European working group related to toys safety. She is also participating as technical expert to European legislative activities, to the Toy Notified Body group coordination.